Learn about your Land Classes for Woodland Owners

SPOONER • WEBSTER
February-March 2013

Dear woodland owner,

We believe that landowners can achieve ALL of the goals they have for their woodland. Our classes will provide the knowledge and resources you need to start on your way to getting the most out of your woodland. We invite you to “Learn About Your Land.”

OTHER LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

If you would prefer to learn at home at your own pace, our online course and DVDs provide much of the same content as the in-person classes. Both include recorded presentations and supplemental materials to get you closer to achieving your goals for your woodland. The DVD package includes the discs and publications on timber harvesting and monitoring for wildlife. The online course provides the same presentations with more interactivity and supporting resources (links to the publications and more websites).

For the DVD package, send a check made out to UW-Extension for $10 to Bill Klase, 107 Sutliff Ave, Rhinelander, WI 54501.

If you would like to access the online course, send an email to kris.tiles@uwex.edu

LANDOWNER RESOURCES

Woods Words is a newsletter for woodland owners on issues related to caring for forests and getting the most out of them.

If you are interested in receiving this free, quarterly e-mail newsletter, please subscribe by sending an e-mail to: learnaboutyourland@gmail.com (subject: subscribe)

Like us on Facebook and get weekly news on woodland owner issues in Wisconsin.

www.facebook.com/LearnAboutYourLand

DNR foresters are also available to personally help you find answers for almost any woodland-related question. A DNR forester can assist you in developing a forest management plan or refer you to a consulting forester for hire. Training and experience varies among consulting foresters, so it is wise to get references before hiring one.

A list of consulting foresters can be found on the WDNR website, dnr.wi.gov/topic/ForestLandowners

Woodland Owners Association (WWOA) is another great resource for landowners. WWOA is a statewide organization, but has local chapters to facilitate local landowner interaction. WWOA events provide opportunities to learn what others are doing on their own woodlots and to get advice about foresters and loggers.
